In $20,000 suit

Bay School Board denies allegations

By RICH ADAMS
The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board and Superintendent J.D. McCullough, named as co-defendants in a class action federal suit filed against them Aug. 14, have replied to the suit claiming there is no basis for the legal action. The reply and "Defendant's First Interrogatories to Plaintiffs" were filed with the U.S. District Court, Southern District on Sept. 12.

In the reply, the board and McCullough, represented by Board Attorney Lucien Cox, claim that "The Complaint fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted."

Plaintiffs in the suit, which requests $20,000 in punitive damages, are North Bay Parent-Teacher Organization President Lana Noonan on behalf of the PTO; Andrews Wilkinson, president of the Bay St. Louis Local, American Federation of Teachers; and school patrons Charles Gottschalk, Gloria Holland, and Mrs. Elmer Boyd.

In the suit, the plaintiffs accuse the defendants of "intentional denial of the Plaintiff's civil rights."

Attorneys on both sides of the case have advised their clients not to discuss the case with members of the press. In the answer to the initial allegations filed by the plaintiffs, McCullough and each board member answer the allegations filed by the plaintiffs.

"And now, answering the Complaint, Defendants deny that the Plaintiffs are entitled to any of the relief set out in Paragraph 1..."

Paragraph One of the suit filed by the plaintiffs sets out eight individual complaints, mostly dealing with the Board's controversial Policy 18, which establishes criteria for school patrons to gain a slot on the Board's agenda.

"Defendants further deny that Plaintiffs are entitled to a jury trial sin-

Sea water erosion undermines beach road

Beach Boulevard closes tomorrow

By LESLIE WILLIAMS
Hancock County Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge Saturday ordered the closing of Beach Boulevard from Waveland Avenue to Clermont Harbor, effective Monday morning.

The road closing, in addition, will block the main entrance to Buccaneer State Park in Waveland.

The supervisor said closing of the road was necessitated by continuing erosion of the road bed by tropical storms this year.

The beach road was damaged first by a tropical storm in April and later by Hurricane Bob in July.

Erosion continued last week when a tropical storm-related weather system Thursday night brought wind-driven high tides to the Hancock County coastline, reaching sea water over and under Beach Boulevard in places.

The Federal Highway Administration recently denied an application submitted by the county for $100,000 to finance beach road repairs.

"I am disappointed," Courge said of the FHA's denial.

"I was going to spend county funds to repair badly damaged sections of the road, because I expected to be reimbursed with federal funds. But now that the government has denied our application I doubt if I will be reimbursed, so I'm going to hold off on the repairs for awhile," Courge explained.

Greg Smith, director of Buccaneer State Park which fronts on the beach road, said yesterday, "The closing of the road will cause a problem for us, however I fully understand the necessity of Courge having to close the road."

Visitors will have to use the rear entrance off of South Street and this may congest traffic," he said.

He added that people from out of town, if they find the back entrance, will be confused once they enter the park because the information office is located at the front entrance. The director said he will post signs directing visitors to the park.

Courge said he anticipates sections of Beat Two beach road to be closed in the near future as well.

The road will remain open to those residents who cannot otherwise reach their homes, Courge said.

Automobile mishaps reported

By RICH ADAMS
Three separate automobile accidents involving five cars kept the Bay St. Louis Police Department busy Friday night and Saturday morning, according to Chief Douglas Williams.

Williams said a mishap at the intersection of US-90 and Carroll Avenue in Bay St. Louis sent three persons to Hancock General Hospital with minor injuries at approximately 11 p.m. Friday.

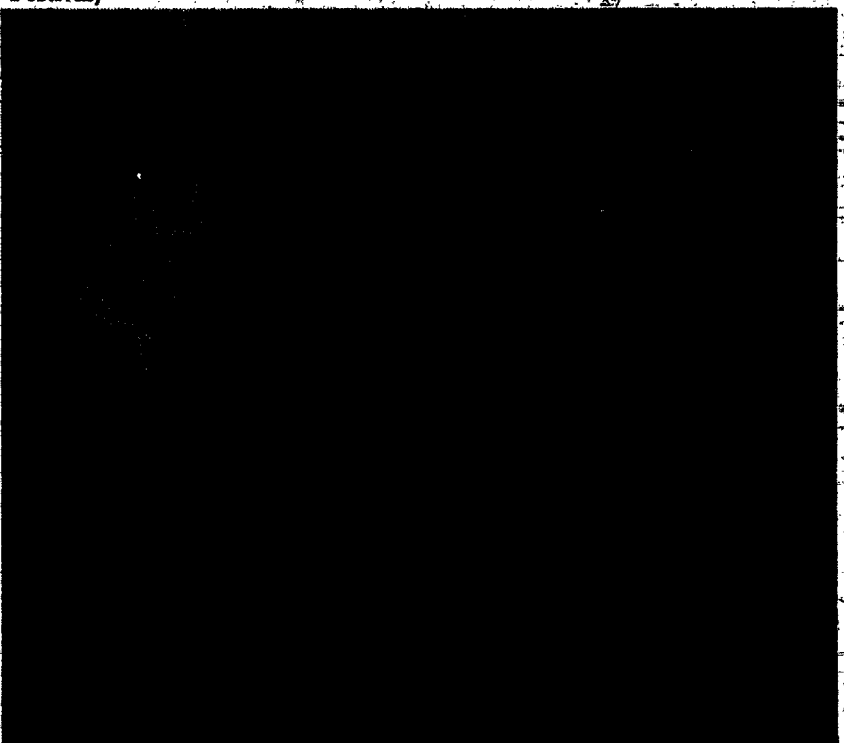

Williams said a 1966 Pontiac driven by Sharon Fitzgerald, 34, 110 Bienville Dr., Waveland, was traveling east on US-90 when a 1977 Chevrolet Nova, driven by Rose Smith, 67, of Pearllington drove into its path.

Smith was headed northwest on Carroll Avenue and drove across the highway in an attempt to make a left turn and head east on US-90 when she struck the Fitzgerald car, the chief reported.

Passengers in the Fitzgerald vehicle were Lonnie and Leslie Fitzgerald, both 13, and Tyla Brady, 13, Washington

ALCAN EXPLORES - Alcan Cable Corp., a subsidiary of Alcan Inc., is planning to build a new cable plant in Bay St. Louis for Alcan Cable Corp. Jack Robinson, president of Alcan's cable division, said Thursday's Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Morning Edition meeting at Scaffidi's Wheel Inn in Bay St. Louis where Robinson was guest speaker. Robinson, a native of Hot Springs, Ark., formerly was engaged in engineering and production management at International Telephone and Telegraph in Rhode Island plant. A graduate of Henderson State University in Arkansas, Robinson lives in Diamondhead with his wife, the former Kimberly Hardin of Atlanta. McCaslin holds a bachelor of science degree in chemistry and physics, has completed work in the graduate school of business at Providence College, Rhode Island, and has pursued post-graduate engineering studies at Purdue and the University of Arkansas. Executive unveils Alcan operation

By EDGAR PEREZ
A veil of mystery surrounding operations of the Alcan cable plant in Bay St. Louis was lifted Thursday by the company's cable division president in an address before a Morning Edition meeting at the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

"There's not another one like it in this country or any other country," Jack Robinson said at Scaffidi's Wheel Inn of his company's highly automated and technically sophisticated cable fabricating operation on Central Avenue here.

"It is thrilling for me to be in your community building a plant which is the best of its kind making what it makes," Atlanta resident Robinson reported.

"Engineers from Germany, Japan and other countries are anxious to come to Bay St. Louis to see how we're doing what we're doing here," the executive revealed.

What Robinson, new plant manager Alan McCaslin, and some 40 local Alcan employees are doing is converting aluminum and polyethylene raw materials into specialized cables used by the electric utility industry as underground feed lines from transformers to commercial and residential customers. "This plant is still a baby in diapers," Robinson said, noting his men are still ironing out the bugs in the new, previously untried technology of the plant here.

"We will reach a point within the next six months where we will be taking in 10 million pounds of aluminum and five million pounds of polyethylene and turning out $15-million worth of cable annually," Robinson continued.

"With a five-day work week, our top number will be some $30 million in sales from the Bay St. Louis plant output," he elaborated, "with the potential for a $40 million output in a seven-day week."

County reapplies for disaster funds

By LESLIE WILLIAMS
Hancock County re-applied Thursday to the Federal Highway Administration for funds to repair Beach Boulevard. Although the county's application for funds to repair beach road was denied last week by the Federal Highway Administration, Hancock County should re-apply for funding under the Highway Act of 1966 in this year.

Administration will give very close attention to the re-application," Bynum stated Thursday. Hancock County had applied with the highway administration for $100,000 to finance repairs on some 1.5 miles of beach road damaged by the tropical storm in April and later by Hurricane Bob in July.

Hancock County was included in a separate or special declaration for emergency relief after Hurricane Bob's departure. It's special declaration may have been the reason why the county was denied funding in Washington. However, the county's application was denied last week by the Federal Highway Administration.

Pesticides research grant awarded to MSU professor

A research grant for more than a half-million dollars to study how pesticides benefit American farmers, in terms of dollars and yields, has been given to Mississippi State University's Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station (MAFES).

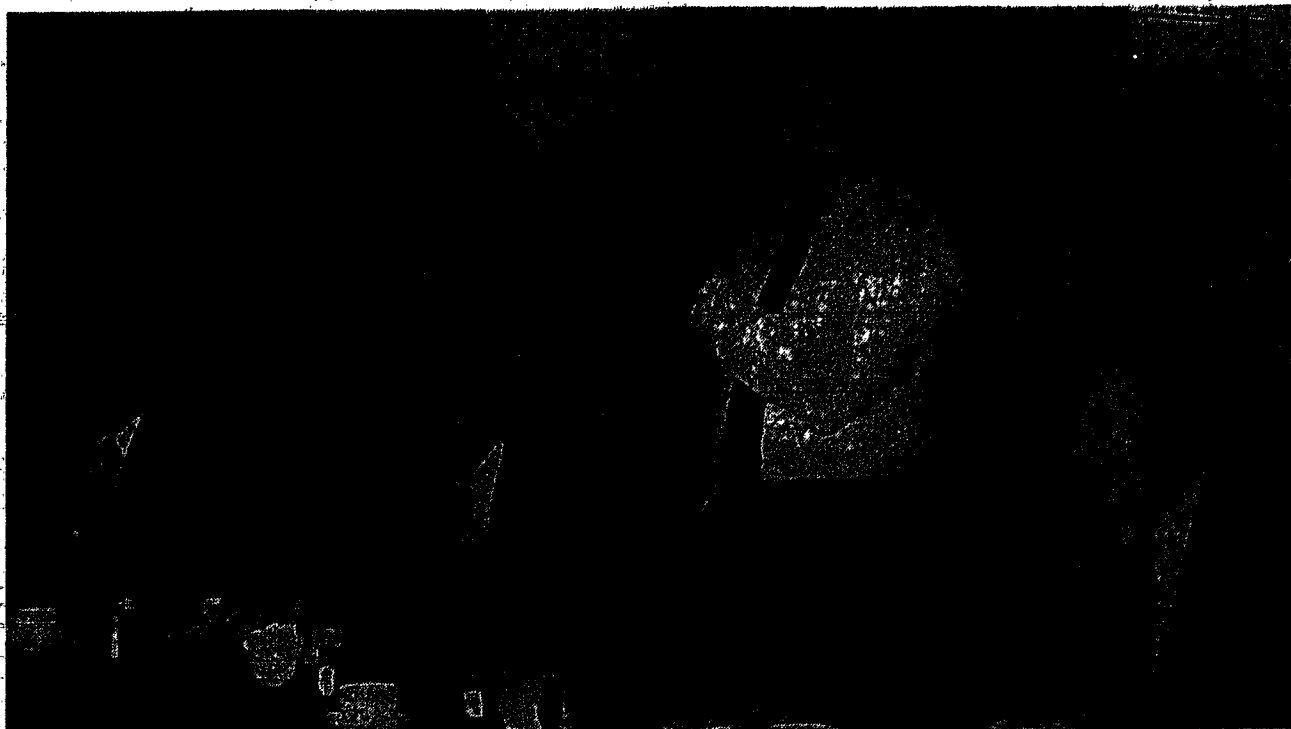

The grant was awarded to Dr. D.W. Parvin, MAFES agricultural economist, by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). Parvin will get $582,660 for two years.

He will develop ways to measure the dollar value of pesticides (mostly insecticides and herbicides) to farmers in all parts of the nation. Five economists will be added to the MAFES staff to work on this project.

Parvin is experienced in evaluating the economic impact of technology in farming. He has a grant from USDA's National Economics Division for continuous study of what new technology is worth to farmers.

Parvin's newest grant brings his outside support money to about $1.1 million worth of grants currently in force. Some of his other major projects:

- A 40 Study month funded by Agricultural Research Service, USDA, to develop a cotton-crop computer model that can calculate yield based on soil type, fertilizer, weather and insect populations, both pests and predators;
- A three-year grant funded by the National Resource Economics Division, USDA, to estimate costs and economic benefits of eradication of the boll weevil across the cotton belt. Parvin will compare those benefits and costs with alternative methods of managing the boll weevil;
- A two-year study supported by Cotton Incorporated to develop better treatment thresholds for bollworms on cotton in Mississippi.

Proposed Cadet project includes sports fishermen

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

A design change in a proposed Bayou Cadet anchorage basin making the facility more usable for recreational fishermen was approved by the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission Thursday night.

Engineer Charles Hill of Burk and Associates, Inc., who is preparing a master plan study on the Cadet proposal, said the new design will also lower the overall cost of the project.

In recommending the new design, Hill said the new physical layout makes the proposed basin "50 percent more recreational."

The previous design was predominantly commercial. Hill said the change makes the project eligible for funding from more federal agencies.

The engineer said he will apply for funding from several federal agencies, but Hill refused to disclose from which agencies he will seek funds.

"The new design will also lower the construction cost of the anchorage basin," Hill added.

Hill advised the commission the Bayou Cadet anchorage basin master plan study is near completion.

"Once the master plan is completed I can use the plan to apply for more federal funds," Hill explained.

He expects the master plan to be completed at the end of October.

In other action, the commission:

- Authorized payment of $848 to Plants, Sites and Parks Industrial trade magazine for an advertisement.
- Authorized payment of $974 to Crown Equipment Co. for tractor repairs.

Teenage mother nervous baby

Q. My daughter is 16 and is a mother of a 5-month-old baby boy. She does not want to listen to me about training the baby to any habits of sleeping, eating, etc. The baby is very nervous because she takes him around with her all hours of the night. She has very little patience with the little fellow. He is a very bright baby and understands when you talk to him in a calm voice. She is dating a 26-year-old man that smokes pot and has a child of his own. Lord, we need help. Please give us some counsel.

A. - Speaking as a grandfather and a grandchild, we've all got to say that, in general, it's a pretty good idea for a mother to handle her own baby, unless, of course, she is totally incompetent.

In a case of child abuse, legal recourse is possible. Perhaps in a nice, unobtrusive manner you can induce your daughter to leave the child in your hands now and then.

What about women preachers?

I need some answers about women preachers. Is it right, according to the Scriptures, for them to be head of a church.

A. We believe that it is right, and are not aware of any valid conflict with Scripture. The fact that preaching has, historically, been almost altogether a function of men does not mean that there is any reason why a woman may not also perform this function. Lovingly and forgotten.

Q. I need help desperately. I'm into another nervous breakdown, after I seemed to be recovering from one. I cannot relax, calm down, think straight - so nervous, worried all the time. My husband and I are separated for many years but we agreed to stay close friends and he would send me money. Now he's ignored both things, and I am lonely, oh so lonely. I've been abandoned by a children I adored, forgotten. Oh how I need your help, so badly.

A. It may be that you are being rejected because of your obviously twisted up attitude

Pulpit Points

BY DR. L.S. WALKER

THERE ARE SOME ABSOLUTES in this world despite its fickle, fragile and transitory character. Despite all the cynicism, ambiguity and atheism which has plagued every age and generation, there are some things unchangeable and unmovable. There are some anchors both sure and steadfast.

"...That by two immutable things," the writer to the Hebrews declares, "in which it was impossible for God to lie, we might have a strong consolation, who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope set before us - which hope we have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and steadfast...even Jesus..." (Hebrews 6:17-20).

Let the pseudo-intellectuals sneer; let the neo-religionist laugh if they will. There are some things unshakable; some things positive; some absolutes in this world of ours - God, the Great First Cause, the Maker and Sustainer of all things - Jehovah eternal remains.

"Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations," cried the Psalmist. "Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God" (Ps. 90:1-2).

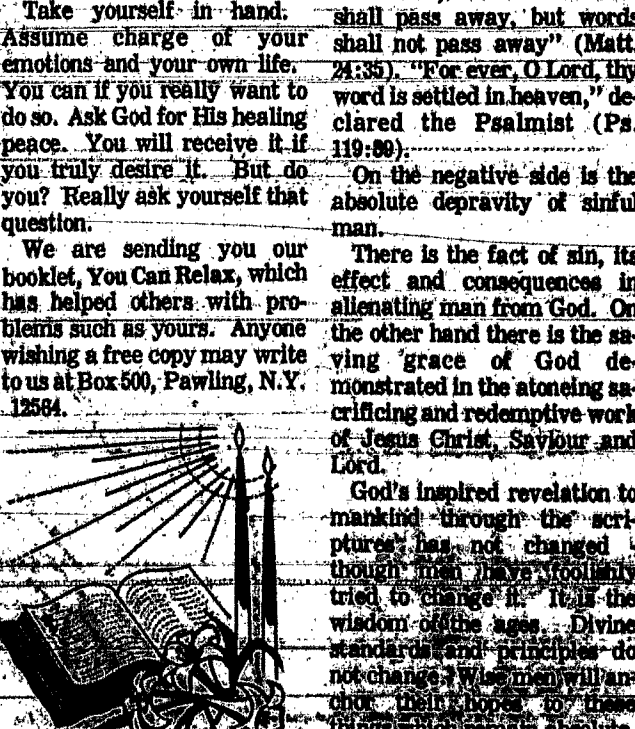

In a world of change, there remain some things unchanged. "I am the Lord, I change not; ..." (Mal. 3:6).

There are yet other absolutes; as the Word of God. Jesus said, "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but words shall not pass away" (Matt. 24:35). "For ever, O Lord, thy word is settled in heaven," declared the Psalmist (Ps. 119:89).

On the negative side is the absolute depravity of sinful man.

There is the fact of sin, its effect and consequences in alienating man from God. On the other hand there is the saving grace of God demonstrated in the atoning sacrifice and redemptive work of Jesus Christ, Saviour and Lord.

God's inspired revelation to mankind "through the scriptures" has not changed, though men have continually tried to change it. It is the wisdom of the ages. Divine standards and principles do not change. We must continually turn back to these things which remain absolute.

Bits 'n pieces

We met one of our subscribers at the Post Office Thursday morning and he asked if we had a few minutes. A situation he wanted to show us was very interesting and related to the water system of Bay St. Louis. We counted a total of 45 patches on the black top from Ulman Avenue to US-90 on North Beach Boulevard. A city crew was working on one spot. A total of six or seven areas show leaks. We wonder just how much has been paid over a few years for the repair of this one section of waterline? How much damage has been done to the surface of Beach Boulevard and how many truck loads of black-top have been required to complete these repairs? We have a tendency to feel the best thing to try and do on that section of the water system is replace the line.

The members of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce who attended the 'Morning Edition' at Scaffidi's Wheel-Inn were few, but those who did attend received a very enlightening presentation by Jack Robinson, president of Alcan.

We are happy to have Alcan in Bay St. Louis and are looking forward to the time they get into full production.

We have come across several organizations, groups of people and individuals who are making trips to the areas hit hard by Hurricane Frederic.

It is a good feeling to realize that there are those who well remember the conditions in Hancock County for so many weeks and months after Camille.

The people around Pascagoula and Mobile have the same needs as we did, such as water, ice, food, fuel to cook with, etc. We congratulate each and everyone of you who has a feeling for his fellowman.

SPECIAL REPORT:

Soviet Troops in Cuba

Many of you, no doubt, have viewed with alarm the news that the Soviet Union has several thousand combat troops stationed in Cuba. This latest development in Cuba's involvement as a Russian ally, or satellite, to be more accurate, has raised a number of serious questions concerning American policy and capabilities in the world power. One question involves our overall perspective of the Western Hemisphere and our neighbors in North and South America. Are we going to allow the Russians to use the island of Cuba as a staging area for future intervention or involvement in Latin America, as they are doing now in Africa? This would certainly be a departure from the historic Monroe Doctrine and succeeding American policy dealing with the Western Hemisphere. The Russians have been training, advising and equipping the Cuban military forces for a number of years, and have persuaded them to serve as stalking horses or spear-bearers for Soviet intervention in a number of areas in Africa. Given the history of revolution and instability in many countries of Central and South America, there is every reason for the United States to be concerned about any buildup of Russian forces in Cuba, a buildup that could result in Cuba serving as a Western Hemisphere military base for future Soviet imperialism. Another question concerns our own intelligence capability, our ability to monitor potentially hostile forces so close to our own shores. Those of us who live in Gulf Coast states do not need to be reminded that Cuba is only 90 miles from the Florida keys. Their working news that several thousand Russian combat troops are not only in Cuba, but probably have been there for three years without our knowledge, clearly shows the need for us to take the steps necessary to strengthen our intelligence network. The fact that the administration publicly admits that it has taken three years to discover the Russians have a brigade of combat-ready troops in Cuba almost makes me wonder if the next revelation will be that they are conducting summer maneuvers on Ship Island in the Mississippi Sound. Much of the blame for this deterioration in our nation's intelligence system can be traced to the anti-military, anti-defense sentiment which welled up in the aftermath of the Vietnam War and Watergate. It was a reaction to what many Americans perceived to be abuses of power by some in our national government. However, as our United States Senator, I am worried that we must not allow further slipage in our intelligence system, particularly as we consider such things as the SALT II agreement, the strategic arms limitation treaty. Our ability to properly assess and verify Soviet military capability is very crucial to our national security, with or without the SALT II agreement. In fact, the knowledge of Russian troops stationed in Cuba has raised opposition to Senate ratification of the treaty unless and until the Soviet Union withdraws those combat units from Cuba. I, for one, believe we should demand the Russians withdraw their troops from Cuba before we proceed with the ratification process in the Senate, and a number of my colleagues have voiced similar views. We simply cannot allow the Soviet Union a free rein all over the world, particularly in the Western Hemisphere so close to our own shores. I am urging the administration to exert all the diplomatic and economic pressure within reason on the Soviet Union in regard to this Cuban matter. The presence of Soviet combat troops in Cuba is a violation of the intent and spirit of the 1962 Organization of American States resolution, adopted in the aftermath of the Cuban missile crisis during the administration of the late John Kennedy. I certainly hope the President will act as forcefully today as his predecessor did 17 years ago in protecting American interests with regard to Soviet involvement in Cuba.

MISSISSIPPI ECONOMIC COUNCIL
THE STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

A CASE FOR KINDERGARTEN
The establishment of kindergarten programs in the public schools of Mississippi could have a dramatic impact on the average educational achievement of the state's students—now below the rest of the nation by most measurable standards. Many educators believe that about 17 percent of a child's growth takes place between the ages of four and six and that a kindergarten program could have far-reaching effects on learning patterns. At present, at least 30 states provide support for public kindergartens which are designed to provide for the fullest possible development through early learning situations involving manipulation of objects, sensory stimulation, language development, and interaction with people. The value of the kindergarten experience for five-year-olds is widely accepted. The experience places the child on a firm foundation for later educational achievement. The Mississippi Economic Council recognizes the fact that the ultimate goal of the educational system is a person who is an asset to his family, community, state, and nation. And, MEC recommends that a public school kindergarten be established and included in the minimum education program.

Washington report

CUBA: NO PLACE FOR RUSSIAN TROOPS
By CONGRESSMAN TRENT LOTT
The revelations that the Soviet Union has secretly stationed a brigade of ground combat troops in Cuba have generated a great deal of concern on Capitol Hill, and the issue is troubling on several different fronts. While the presence of Soviet military advisers and a Russian tracking station has been known for some time, only recently was it disclosed that between 2,000 and 3,000 troops, along with accompanying military hardware, have been deployed on the island just 90 miles from American shores. In a word, the placement of these combat troops is intolerable. The United States' direct confrontation with the Soviet Union during the Cuban missile crisis of 1962 is more than just a memory. As a college student then, I remember watching anxiously with all other Americans as President Kennedy dealt with the challenge. He was able to deal effectively with the situation partly because there was no doubt in anyone's mind that the U.S. was militarily superior. We may now have lost that edge. As yet, there has been no adequate explanation by the Soviet Union of why combat troops have been placed in Cuba. Many questions remain to be answered and the particulars need to be disclosed. The revelations came just when the Senate was turning its sights on the strategic arms limitation treaty, which must be ratified before it becomes effective. Supporters of SALT II had argued for months that it should be considered on its own merits. Now, however, even their time has changed. SALT II's strongest supporters are saying it is unlikely that the Senate will ratify the treaty as long as Soviet combat troops remain in Cuba. I think SALT debate should be linked with the Russian military presence in Cuba because, in fact, the two are connected—if the Soviet Union cannot be trusted to keep its troops out of Cuba, how can it be trusted to uphold its end of the SALT treaty? The purpose of the Russian troops being deployed in the Western Hemisphere must be revealed immediately. I have cosponsored a resolution calling on the President to insist that the troops be removed and that SALT II debate be suspended until they are removed. We should avoid confrontation with Soviet Union if possible. But at the same time we have to draw the line on just what we will allow other countries to get away with.

MISSISSIPPI CONSUMER REPORT

A Service of the Consumer Protection Division Of The Office Of
A. F. Summer, Attorney General

Hurricane victims target for traveling contractors

Attorney General A. F. Summer alerted hurricane victims in Mississippi that home folks, local contractors, generally are reliable people. Summer said that some victims will be a target for itinerant home repair contractors who follow disasters for profit. The Consumer Protection Division of Summer's office reported that information from other Hurricane Disaster areas show that these operators, claiming to be painters, carpenters, and roofers, attempt to take advantage of the disaster homeowners' plight and desire to clean up and fix up as soon as possible. Their attraction is what appears to be a cheap price and quick work. Unfortunately they hit an run, do inferior work, accept advance payment, and leave the area before the work is found to be unsatisfactory. "The people we are concerned about," Summer said, "are those who do not intend to do any work at all after they get some of your money or part payments to begin work. You can guard against this by following these suggestions: Check the reputation of a contractor with references, Better Business Bureau, banks, building or trade associations, and city building permit departments or people for whom they have done work for in the past. Get the names and addresses of several contractors. An effective way of doing this is to ask friends and neighbors who have work done previously. It is risky to deal with a company or an individual about whom you know nothing. Then ask the contractor to give you a firm, written estimate. These estimates should contain a specific description of the work to be done and should include a description of the kind and quality of materials to be used. Include the total price. NEVER deal with a contractor unless you know he has a permanent place of business in your area. NEVER select a contractor without having a written estimate of the total cost of the job. NEVER select a contractor who has not come to your house to assess the job. NEVER make a final decision on the selection of a contractor until you have had time to weigh all considerations. After you select a contractor, ask him to submit a written contract based on his estimate. Read the contract carefully. If you do not understand the provisions, have an attorney review it before you sign. The Young Lawyers Section of the State Bar Association has attorneys available at no cost at the one stop centers. Make certain that the contract includes the following: the name, address, and phone number of the contractor; a complete description of the work; a specific description of the materials to be used; and a provision requiring your written approval for any changes in the agreed-to plans and specifications. The contract should also include a guarantee—whose terms are clearly stated and which covers all promised items; A provision setting forth the total cost of the work and specific terms of payment for materials and labor; and the signature of the contractor. NEVER sign any contract that contains blank spaces. NEVER sign any contract that does not contain the contractor's signature. NEVER agree to a contract calling for substantial payments on the whole amount before work is begun unless there is a legitimate reason known to you. Try to provide for payments in installments as portions of the work are satisfactorily completed. NEVER rely on oral guarantee of a guarantee not in written, it is generally worthless. The Federal Truth in Lending Law also provides a cancellation period. This law gives you three days to cancel if the contractor took security interest, such as a mortgage, in your home as part of the transactions.

Health and Safety Tip

Carelessness Blamed In Hunting Accidents

Some millions of American males—along with more than a few females—are taking to the woods this fall, firearms in hand, in search of live targets. These are the hunters among us. The American Medical Association has a note of caution for those who are planning a fall safari into the fields and woods in search of birds, small animals, deer and other game. Before you pull the trigger, know what you're firing at. The hunter who blazes away at everything that moves is a highly dangerous animal. His quarry might well be another hunter. Each year several hundred hunters return from fall outings via hearse. Thousands of others return with a load of bird shot or a rifle bullet to be dug out. Behind almost every hunting accident is one cause—carelessness. Never cross over or through a fence or climb a tree with a loaded gun. It might fall and discharge. Unload first and reload after crossing. Don't shoot at a hard, flat surface. Glancing bullets can carry long distances. Even a small bore rifle has considerable range. Know where your bullet will stop before pulling the trigger. Keep guns away from children. Never leave a weapon unattended without unloading it. Store guns and ammunition beyond reach of youngsters, preferably under lock and key. Always carry a gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle if you stumble. Be sure the barrel is clear of mud, snow or other obstructions. A clogged barrel may burst. Keep the safety catch on until ready to shoot. Leave your liquor bottle at camp, and wait until you're through the day's hunting and the guns are unloaded to take that first drink. There is a special hazard for rabbit hunters. This is rabbit fever, tularemia. It is a serious illness. Many wild rabbits are infected. One rule of thumb is—if the rabbit doesn't run, brush, or hop, it's flushed, leave him alone. The bunny who hops slowly along, or stands and wails, likely is sick.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics.
By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

How long does an advertisement last—that is, what is the life expectancy? The cost makes a short term ad seem too expensive. Looking For Permanency.
Dear LEP: Any ad has some degree of permanency in the public mind—the extent of it, the residual effect depends on the ad and the message.
So your answer is another question—how good or memorable is your ad?
Recently a friend asked if we knew if there is a dealer in the area for a certain imported automobile. I told him there was an outlet nearby, based on what I had seen recently. He found that the dealer who had indeed been the distributor until three years ago, was no longer selling this particular line. Another dealer who had been duplicating my information, sold the same classified advertisement. He called up to a newspaper. A year ago I advertised a used patio door, and nine months later someone who lives 30 miles away came by one Sunday afternoon and bought it. He was visiting here and told me he needed such a door. They remember the ad which ran only three weeks, but the last time had been nine months ago.
Another example—my wife was selling an oven wall unit and tabletop range eyes left over after remodeling. She ran a small ad several weeks, and finally gave the items to a church for their new fellowship room.
But a full calendar year later she got a call from someone inquiring about the items. These examples are more dramatic because of two factors—one, the ads were quite small, and the great lapse of time before results were apparent.
A retail business that advertises regularly gets the same results many times over. The wise merchant does not run one ad and wait for the returns. He advertises regularly to get a cumulative effect and to keep a flow of business.
Back to your statement about cost and permanency—you are entirely correct. Short of going out of business clearance, permanency should be a characteristic of every ad. This is achieved by selling to persons who are not prospects at the time, but who develop a need in the future.

Local solons eyeing disaster legislation

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

State Representative James P. Compretta of Hancock County has been named a member of the Special House Committee on Disaster Assistance by speaker of the House Buddy Newman at a meeting in Pascagoula Thursday.

"My job along with the other representatives appointed is to contact the governmental agencies of Hancock County and NSTL and see if there is a need for any new laws or laws needing changing, especially during times of a disaster," Compretta reported.

Lt. Governor Evelyn Gandy also appointed a "Task Force" of state senators to work along the same lines.

State Senator Martin Smith is among that group appointed by Ms. Gandy.

Compretta stated one of the things the representatives and senators will try to do is to set up an emergency fund which cities and counties can borrow monies from at no interest until federal funds become available.

"When a disaster hits, the cities and counties need money immediately and by the time the paper work gets through the federal level many things can be accomplished. If they borrow from a bank interest has to be paid and the government doesn't pay interest," Co-mpretta replied.

Another area in which Compretta said the legislature might act is to pass a law providing for a moratorium which can automatically be placed on payment of home mortgage loans whenever a major disaster strikes without a special act of the governing body.

Ms. Gandy, in naming the task force commented, "We will appreciate your recommendations concerning any changes in state statutes which you feel would be advisable and any improvements in our disaster operations (Federal-State) during times of disaster."

ce they seek the equitable and extraordinary remedy of injunction and all other questions concerning the Constitutionality of certain alleged actions by Defendants, and should be decided by the Court; Defendants deny the remaining allegations of Paragraph 1," the reply reads.

"Defendants deny that this Court has the jurisdiction to determine Defendant's compliance with the Open Meeting Law of the State of Mississippi, and deny the remaining allegations of Paragraphs 2 and 3 of the Complaint," the reply continues.

In Paragraphs Two and Three of the original suit, the plaintiffs contest the constitutionality of the board's actions under the First and Fourteenth Amendments of the U.S. Constitution, and also cite the state's Open Meeting Law.

"For answer to Paragraph Four, Defendants deny that the said Lana Noonan is authorized to bring this suit on behalf of the North Bay Elementary Parent-Teacher Organization, denies that said PTO is a proper party to this suit, and denies the remaining allegations of Paragraph 4 for lack of sufficient information to justify a belief as to the verity thereof," the Board's reply reads.

Paragraph Four of the suit identifies Noonan as filing the action both on behalf of the PTO and as an individual.

"For answer to Paragraph 5, Defendants deny that Andrews Wilkinson is authorized to bring this suit on behalf of the Bay St. Louis Federation of Teachers, and denies that said federation is a proper party to this suit, and denies that the said Andrews M. Wilkinson is a resident of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, and denies the remaining allegations thereof for lack of sufficient information," the Board's reply states.

In Paragraph Five of the initial suit, Wilkinson is identified as president of the Local AFT and is also identified as a resident of Bay St. Louis.

"Defendants deny the allegations of Paragraph 6 for lack of sufficient information and admit the allegations of Paragraphs 7, 8, and 9," the reply reads.

Paragraph Six of the suit identifies Gottschalk, Boyd, and Holland as members of the PTO and residents of Bay St. Louis.

Paragraphs Seven, Eight, and Nine identify the board, both as a whole and individually, and also identifies McCullough.

"Defendants deny the allegations of Paragraph 10 of the Complaint for lack of sufficient information. Defendants deny the allegations of Paragraph 11 of the Complaint," the reply states.

Paragraph 10 of the suit alleges that plaintiffs have "attempted from time to time to be placed on the agenda of certain regular and special meetings of the Defendant Board in order to express facts and opinions regarding the decisions of the Board."

Paragraph 11 of the initial class-action suit alleges "since November 16, 1978, these Plaintiffs have attempted...to obtain inspection and copying of official minutes, claims dockets, journals, and other official public records of the Board."

In the reply, "For answer to Paragraph 12, Defendants admit that the attachment to the Complaint is the current Board Policy 18 and deny the remaining allegations thereof."

Paragraph 12 of the suit against the board and superintendent claims the defendants have "unreasonably imposed one or more of the restrictions of Board Policy 18 or its predecessor policies" on plaintiffs when they requested a slot on the board agenda.

"For answer to Paragraph 13, Defendants admit the Exhibit 'B' is the copying policy of the Board of Trustees of the School District, and deny the remaining allegations thereof," the reply reads.

In Paragraph 13, the plaintiffs claim the Board and McCullough "denied the Plaintiffs reasonable access and opportunity to inspect and copy official documents of the Board in a reasonable manner and at a reasonable cost..." the suit reads.

The defendants also deny allegations in Paragraphs 14, 15, and 16 of the suit. Paragraphs 14, 15, and 16 allege that McCullough "imposed censorship and screening requirements on these Plaintiffs' attempts to be placed on the Board even though similar requirements were not placed on other persons similarly situated," and also claim McCullough "intimidated" the plaintiffs.

The reply denies "secret" meetings cited in the original suit, and also denies that the Board has failed to establish a policy for notice and conduct of "special, regular meetings, and work sessions of the board..."

"Defendants admit that they have refused to permit the Plaintiff, PTO, and Plaintiff, AFT, to represent teachers on questions of wages, hours, and working conditions, and deny the remaining allegations of Paragraph 20 of the Complaint," the reply states.

The reply also denies the Board refused the plaintiffs exercise of free speech.

"Wherefore, premises considered, Defendants pray that Plaintiffs' Complaint be dismissed at their cost," the reply from the Board concludes.

In the second piece of litigation filed in reply to the suit, a "Defendants' First Interrogatories to Plaintiffs" the defendants request elaboration of the suit, including the following:

—That Plaintiffs list the names of each member of the PTO and Local AFT and whether authorization to file the suit was obtained at a meeting of the PTO;

—To disclose whether any funds of the PTO and AFT are being used to finance the suit;

—To specify each attempt and the person making the attempt to be placed on the agenda; and —To explain in detail each plaintiff who was denied rights or intimidated when requesting a slot on the agenda.

Road.

Mrs. Fitzgerald and the Brady child were both taken to Hancock General Hospital by Mobile Medic, where they were treated and released, police report.

Smith complained of chest pains and was taken to the hospital in a private car, Williams said.

Smith received a ticket for failure to yield right of way, the chief added.

Patrolman Alton Benoit was investigating officer, assisted by Assistant Chief Franklin Hess, Investigator Charles Bouis, and Patrolmen Wilbert Dorsey, Charles Campbell, and Kenneth Maddox.

Williams reported another two-car mishap occurred some 40 minutes later at the intersection of Longfellow Road and Turner Street in Bay St. Louis.

Williams said Martin L. Moran of Bay St. Louis was driving a 1974 Ford north on Turner Street when he apparently failed to yield at a stop sign and ran into a 1969 Toyota driven by Mary Ann Alsobrook, 16, also of Bay St. Louis, which was heading in a westerly direction on Longfellow Road.

A passenger in the Alsobrook car, Julia Payne, 16, 436 Webster St., Bay St. Louis, was injured in the accident and taken to Hancock General Hospital in a private car, the chief reported.

Moran was also taken to the hospital where he was treated and released, Williams added.

Moran is charged with driving under the influence, reckless driving, and causing damage, police report.

Investigating officers in the mishap were Wilbert Dorsey and Charles Campbell.

Williams reported a third mishap, this time a one-car accident, which occurred at 4:07 a.m. Saturday.

The chief said William A. Bourgeois, 24, Bay St. Louis, was driving a 1979 Toyota in the 500 block of Main Street when he ran into a blockade in the middle of the road, lost control of the car, and smashed into a utility pole.

Williams said Bourgeois was uninjured, but the car was heavily damaged.

No citations were issued in the mishap, police reported.

Dorsey and Campbell investigated the accident, the chief added.

Alcan

Interested in jobs, I must admit we are not a large employer here in terms of numbers of people—we hope we are a good employer," he said.

He said the $15 million sales output here will require 40 employees; the $30 million goal, some 50 to 55 employees; and the $40 million goal will mean 70 employees.

"Our new technology here allows us to turn out our product with approximately half the people formerly required," Robinson said.

"And the important thing is, we would otherwise be among the five cable companies which went out of business this year."

"We are surviving," Robinson emphasized.

The company's local employees, currently the recipients of a $500,000 annual payroll, are first mastering the art of cable making by hand, Robinson said, "And then we will turn over up to 60 percent of the operation to computers."

"It's our intention to be a good citizen," Robinson said in explaining a malfunctioning valve has caused a steam blow-off at the plant and drawn complaints from residents.

"We are asking them to bear with us while the necessary parts for repair are being fabricated—everything in the plant is so new replacements have to be made," he explained.

Robinson promised the company will conduct limited public tours of the facility here in about six months, "once we get the diapers off."

He noted the technology of the plant still remains a closely guarded secret.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett recently assured Chamber of Commerce directors he felt there were no problems with the solvency or success of the plant when members of the board questioned a lack of public information about Alcan's operation here.

The residents of Hancock County participated in the development of the Alcan plant here through authorization of an industrial bond issue some two years ago.

Robinson said the Bay St. Louis plant represents a $5 to $6 million investment on his company's part.

"Our investment goal here is $10 million," Robinson assured his listeners Thursday.

ministration under the Frederic disaster declaration.

The county has already received $8,307 from the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration to repair beach road from Clermont Harbor to Bayou Cadet, which is outside the cities of Waveland and Bay St. Louis.

Alton Kellar, Beat Two supervisor and president of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, said Friday the county has prepared and sent a re-application to the highway department, "which asks for funding to restore the Beach Boulevard to its original condition."

Donn Murray, assistant to County Engineer Larry Seal of Ocean Springs, said Friday he was contacted by Clyde Hair of the Federal Highway Administration and Hair plans to perform an on-site inspection of the road damage soon.

Nuptial Mass joins Paulette and Patrick Necaie

Theresa Paulette Necaie, daughter of Mrs. Leslie Necaie and the late Mr. Necaie of Necaie Crossing, and Patrick James Necaie, son of

Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Ladner of Dedeaux and the late Everett Necaie, were married Friday evening, September 7, at a Nuptial Mass in Infant Jesus of Prague Catholic Church, White Cypress.

Rev. Pierre Hisey performed the double ring ceremony. Arched lighted candles formed the background for the altar flanked by arrangements of white gladioli, white and yellow daisies and palm greenery.

A program of special nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Pat Hille, organist, and Mrs. Lana Noonan, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her brother, Kerwin Necaie, the bride wore a formal gown of sheer organza over bridal taffeta featuring a fitted bodice with a ring collar and yoke of English net accented by lace embellished with seed pearls. The lace bordered full skirt swept to a chapel length train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held by a lace Juliet cap. She wore a pearl necklace and earrings, a gift of her parents, and carried a nosegay of silk daisies, yellow roses, baby's breath and lily of the valley interspersed with ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Laquida Necaie, Gulfport, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor; and Mona Ladner, Necaie Crossing, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Kathy Necaie, sister-in-law of the groom, and Sherrell Cuevas, cousin of the groom, both of Pass Christian. Amanda Ladner, Reserve, La., cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

The attendants wore softly flowing yellow chiffon gowns featuring fitted bodices, chiffon capelets and crystal pleated skirts. They carried lighted candle arrangements of silk daisies, yellow roses and forget-me-nots and wore headpieces of daisies and baby's breath.

Mark Ladner, Dedeaux, attended the groom as best man. Groomsmen were Lonnie Necaie, brother of the bride, Brad Ladner of Necaie Crossing and Keith Ladner of Dedeaux; brothers of the groom. Jimmy Necaie of Pass Christian, uncle of the groom, served as usher. Ring Bearer was Kelton Ladner, cousin of the bride.

The mother of the bride received guests wearing a dusty mint green formal gown fashioned with a V-neckline, long sleeves and softly gathered skirt. A corsage of pale yellow roses completed her ensemble.

The mother of the groom, wore a beige floral print chiffon gown fashioned with butterfly sleeves, fitted waist and a full skirt and an ivory tulle train.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in Marion Hall in the church complex, where baskets of white and yellow blossoms and lighted candelabra formed the background for the bride's table which held a three tier wedding cake decorated with daisies and yellow roses with a fountain in the center.

Assisting at the reception were Mesdames Joan Olsen, Sharon Barnett, Sylvia Walker, Sherry Ann Cuevas and Vernel Lee. Keeping the guest register was Miss Melaine Seal.

Out of town guests were included, Mrs. Mollie Seals, Mrs. Hazel Head, Mrs. Lorena Head, Mrs. Mary Head, Mrs. Elaine Ladner and Mrs. Linda Ladner.

For their wedding trip to Panama City, Fla., the bride chose a rust terry velour dress, tan accessories and a corsage of rust silk roses. The couple will reside in Dedeaux Community.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Necaie

Rev. Paul E. Lee performed the double ring ceremony, and Miss Arlene Lee, Ocean Springs, cousin of the bride, was presented by Miss Janice Tyner, Gulfport, niece of Seal of Hattiesburg.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an angora gown, overlaid with floral bellum gown of French tulle, and white pleated Chantilly lace, featuring a scalloped neckline embellished with sequins and the matron of honor carried a bouquet of mimosa, lily of the valley, pink carnations and lily of the valley. The bride's veil was held by a lace Juliet cap. She wore a pearl necklace and earrings, a gift of her parents, and carried a nosegay of silk daisies, yellow roses, baby's breath and lily of the valley interspersed with ribbon streamers.

The bride's mother wore a formal dusty rose quiana dress and a corsage of pink rosebuds. The mother of the groom chose a pink crepe dress with a corsage of pale pink rosebuds.

Supply Nourishing Snacks For Youngsters And Teens

MISSISSIPPI STATE — You may find it difficult to get your child, or children, to eat properly. Most children and teenagers generally prefer snack-foods to regular meals. Make a special effort to supply nourishing snack foods and encourage youngsters to eat a variety of wholesome foods.

What your children like to eat — what they do eat — depends on what they are accustomed to eating, says Ann O. Rushing, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service marketing specialist.

Set a good example for your child. Provide a wide variety of foods and plan snacks as a part of total food needs. Any food eaten within two hours before a meal may interfere with the appetite for that meal.

Basic foods that make tasty, desirable snacks include: milk, fruit-flavored milk drinks, fruit juices, raw vegetables, fruits, meat or cheese cubes, peanuts, popcorn and whole grain wafers.

Choose basic foods for snacks for all age groups. Soft drinks, candies and other concentrated sweets have little food value and do not promote good dental health, she explains.

Keep milk and fruit-juice on hand to quench thirst. They are more nutritious and more economical. Ice cream and puddings are good choices.

Remember, dry pudding mix prepared at home usually costs less than individual snack packs. Instant non-fat dry milk can help stretch your budget, too, adds Mrs. Rushing.

Milk and cookies or crackers make a nutritious snack. Oatmeal, raisin, graham, molasses and peanut butter cookies are generally more nutritious than others.

Ready-to-eat cereal also makes a good snack. Don't forget toast sticks, perhaps spread with peanut butter or stopped with a cheese slice, and broiled. Use olive oil; it improves in flavor and texture when toasted.

Use cheese, eggs and peanut butter as meat alternates for snacks. For a new slant, try keeping in your refrigerator a variety tray that includes slices of lunch meat wrapped in cornucopia style around sticks of cheese, celery stuffed with peanut butter, cherry tomatoes and crackers. The possibilities for nutritious snacks are limited only by your imagination, adds Mrs. Rushing.

THE FIZZLE FAMILY

If a snake winks at you it is a legless lizard

It looks like a snake, moves like a snake, and glides like a snake but it isn't a snake at all. What is it?

It's a misnamed legless lizard called the glass snake, according to Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine. In fact, at 27 inches in length, it is the longest lizard found on the North American continent.

Centuries ago, the ancestors of today's glass snake did have legs, but as they took to burrowing underground those appendages disappeared, according to the National Wildlife Federation's monthly magazine for children.

How can you tell a glass snake from the real thing? Like all lizards, the shiny, gray-brown glass snake has eyelids, which it can open and close. Snakes, on the other hand, have no eyelids and cannot close their eyes.

On close inspection, says Ranger Rick, you will also find that the glass snake has a mouthful of teeth — about 165 of them.

Too close an inspection is not recommended, however, since glass snakes, though nonpoisonous, often bite when handled.

The glass snake, which is found along the Atlantic Coast from North Carolina into Florida and in parts of the Midwest, got its strange name from its peculiar tail. If its tail is tugged or hit, it may break like glass into several pieces.

Contrary to popular notion, the pieces never join together again or grow into new lizards. Instead, the lizard grows a new tail.

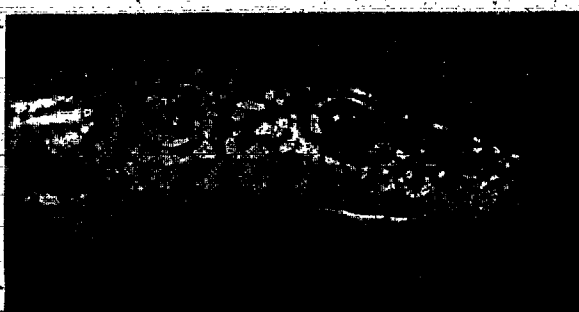

"A glass snake's original tail is at least twice as long as its body," reports Ranger Rick. "but the new tail is shorter and stiffer."

Fewer than half of the glass snakes found in the wild still have their original tails.

Often the glass snake may choose to leave its tail behind to fool a predator. A king snake, for example, will be distracted by the still wriggling detached tail, while the glass snake makes a quick getaway.

So, if you're afraid of snakes, don't jump to conclusions next time you see a slithering, legless creature in the grass. Instead, take a close look. Any "snake" that winks at you is a lizard.

Snake Eyes? Ability to open and close eyes distinguishes this glass snake (which is really a lizard) from real snakes—which do not have eyelids.

CHOCOMALT NOG

This chocolaty favorite is just about the speediest way to get through breakfast that you'll ever find. If you don't have a blender, a few turns of the egg beater will do the trick.

- 1 cup milk
- 1 egg
- 2 tablespoons chocolate syrup
- 2 tablespoons malted milk powder, chocolate or plain

Combine all ingredients in blender container. Cover and blend at medium speed until smooth, about 20 seconds. Serve immediately or pour into small saucepan and place over low heat for 2 to 3 minutes or until simmering, stirring once or twice.

Microwave: Pour into 2-cup microwaveable container and cook on High 2 to 3 minutes, stirring once or twice.

Ordinary stains, even the expensive leading brands, let water soak in and destroy wood. But Cuprinol® Stain & Wood Preservative is registered with the federal government as a preservative. It not only beautifies, it repels water as it protects wood against mildew, watermarking, fading and rot.

CFC meeting rescheduled

The kick-off meeting for the 1979 Combined Federal Campaign has been rescheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 26 at the Keeler Air Force Base officers' club.

Keynote speaker for the 10 a.m. meeting will be Capt. R.J. McHugh, Jr., commanding officer of the Gulfport Seabee Center and this year's campaign chairman. The Combined Federal Campaign is sponsored by the Mississippi Coast Association of Federal Administrators.

This annual fund-driving among federal employees in the four counties of Hancock, Harrison, Jackson and Pearl River supports 62 local United Way agencies plus the National Health Agencies and International Service Agencies.

Last year more than 21,000 federal military and civilian employees were covered by the campaign and 80 percent of those solicited made contributions averaging $16.27 per capita.

This is more than five times the per capita gift donated by non-Federal employees in the area.

The goal for this year's campaign is $360,000. Last fall's campaign collected $356,112 with 71 percent or $250,921 allocated to Gulf Coast welfare and charitable organizations.

Campaign donations will be solicited from October 1 through November 9.

SPOKESMAN FOR THE GROUP—This happy, articulate young fellow was chosen by his six litter-mates to be spokesman in presenting their plea for a good home in return for a lifetime of love from each of them as a reward to their lucky masters. They are available free through the Bay-Waveland Humane Society. For information, call 467-9494. (Staff photo by Edgar Pérez)

Correction

A Veterans Administration report appearing in Thursday's Sea Coast Echo inadvertently listed among new pension law provisions, "new automobile increases each June based on the cost of living index." The statement should have read "automatic increases."

The report also listed the pension for a veteran's widow with one dependent as $13,425. That figure should have read $3,425.

The Echo regrets any inconvenience which may have resulted from these errors.

Brief

OPERA ON TV—The Peabody Award-winning series, "Live from the Met," returns this fall to Mississippi TV with full length operatic performances from New York's Metropolitan Opera.

At 7 p.m. Monday, September 24, world-renowned opera star Placido Domingo sings the title role in Verdi's "Otello" in a performance conducted by Met Opera music director James Levine.

Visiting Writers Series begins at USM Monday

The schedule for the University of Southern Mississippi Center for Writer's Fall Visiting Writers Series, announced today by Fredrick Barthelme, Center director, begins with the visit of fiction writer John Hawkes Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the USM Alumni House.

Hawkes taught at Harvard University from 1956 until 1973 and is currently Professor of English at Brown University. A member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, he is a recipient of grants from the National Institute of Arts and Letters, the Guggenheim Foundation, the Ford Foundation, and the Rockefeller Foundation.

At age 22 Hawkes published his first novel, "The Cannibal," which along with "Second Skin," has become a standard for American literature courses. Hawkes has also written several short stories and plays including "The War Museum," "The Question of the Undertaker," and "The Innocent Party."

Charles Nicol of the National Review says, "John Hawkes writes with a unique brilliance. His novels read like the work of a great writer. He is a writer's writer, and his work is a challenge to the reader. He is a writer's writer, and his work is a challenge to the reader. He is a writer's writer, and his work is a challenge to the reader."

Immediate tax refunds ok'd on storm losses

Immediate tax relief is available for many Mississippi taxpayers who recently suffered property losses due to Hurricane Frederic.

Fourteen counties in Mississippi have now been declared a disaster by the President, the Internal Revenue Service announced.

In addition to the 12 counties previously designated eligible for federal assistance, the President has announced the inclusion of Green and Perry counties in the disaster designation, the Internal Revenue Service noted.

Tax law permits taxpayers in areas designated eligible for federal disaster assistance to deduct losses on either their 1979 tax return or amend their 1978 tax return in order to get an immediate refund, according to the IRS.

Losses to business property are generally deductible in full while non-business losses are deductible only in the amount that each exceeds $100, the IRS said.

Deductions are not allowed for the portion of any loss reimbursed or expected to be reimbursed by insurance or other compensation.

Individuals can amend their 1978 return by completing Form 1041 and submitting it to the IRS. Corporate taxpayers should use Form 1120X.

Clark, Covington, Forrest, George, Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Jones, Lauderdale, Pearl River, Stone and Wayne counties were designated eligible for federal assistance Administration administration.

Taxpayers should complete lists of those items damaged or destroyed, and determine their value immediately before and after the loss occurred. Before-and-after photos of the damaged property and judgements of appraisers are helpful in establishing the amount of loss.

Taxpayers who need help in preparing their returns or claiming refunds should contact their local IRS office.

Two helpful IRS booklets, Publication 547, "Tax Information on Disasters, Casualty Losses and Thefts," and Publication 584, "Workbook for Determining Your Disaster Loss," are also available free from IRS offices.

IN LOVING MEMORY MY DARLING On Your Birthday Born Sept. 24, 1949 Killed August 14, 1979 CURTIS (CHOPPER) HOLMAN

Rest peacefully now my precious son, It's hard to believe your life is done. I'm thankful for all the years I had With you my son and your loving dad.

It saddens my heart to think of you both, It's hard to say who I miss the most. I'm all alone and the day lingers on, But it's at night when I feel all alone.

Part of you is still in our home, At times it's hard to think you're gone. I'll leave your room forever untouched, On my son, I miss you so much.
